Merchants Will Add To Town Attraction

This week has seen a move on foot whereby a number of strings of colored lights are to be placed across the Main street in the downtown area.

From what we can gather, Mr. Bill Beuker has been busy on this project, and to date has some twenty of the merchants in the area affected signed up to assist in footing the expense for this work.

We are informed that it is planned to string some nine or ten rows of lights each with fifteen colored globes, and this should without doubt add greatly to the attractiveness of our Main street, both at the coming festive season as well as on the many other occasions when the lighting would be thought to be appropriate.

In view of the fact that the Calgary Power Co. have kindly expressed their willingness to supply the electric energy for this project free of charge, it is hoped that possibly within the next week or ten days the whole affair may be in working order and the lights brightening up "the little old town".

CANADA TO INCREASE ITS FLYING FORCES

PETERBOROUGH, Ont.—Canada will increase her air force by 100 airplanes, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, said in an address here recently. He did not enlarge on the subject in his speech but later issued a statement.

The airplanes would be manufactured in Canada in this fiscal year, the statement said, in line with government policy to "fortify our defence." Reorganization of non-permanent and active militia was almost complete.

Widespread changes have recently been effected in military headquarters across Canada.

H. I. PLAN BUYS BUILT-IN EQUIPMENT

There is nothing new about glass but the modern homebuilder is finding new uses for it. Walls, mantels, fireplaces and screens are being manufactured from this material.

Glass-like walls come in many colours for bathrooms. Spray panels of glass frequently replace shower curtains, dressing tables of glass and occasional tables may often be found. Mirror panels for mantels and even wall partitions are found of glass-brick.

In modernizing your home through funds obtained under the Home Improvement Plan, bear in mind that built-in equipment is eligible.

Mrs. J. A. Mackenzie has been away to Chauvin for a few days visiting her parents there.

Demand Inquiry to Cut Gasoline Price

An investigation of gasoline prices in this province with a view to bringing about a substantial reduction is to be proposed when delegates to the annual meeting of the Alberta Motor Association assemble at Calgary shortly.

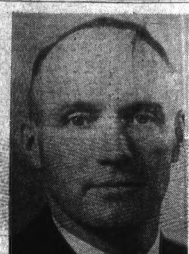

Approval of a resolution of this kind for submission to the provincial meeting was given at the annual meeting of the Edmonton branch and is expected to receive endorsement from other parts of the province.

Report of the Macdonald commission in British Columbia which found that gasoline could be sold for 18 cents per gallon in that province, has spurred Alberta motor clubs to fresh action on this question.

One speaker at the Edmonton motor club meeting declared that he had bought top grade gasoline in Vancouver for only 25 cents per gallon. He was confident Alberta prices were out of line and should be brought down.

The A.M.A. has on several occasions taken up the question of gasoline prices, making representations to the provincial and federal governments. These representations have had much to do with the federal government undertaking an enquiry into gasoline prices some years ago.

Suggestions are advanced that the time is ripe for another federal or provincial inquiry into gasoline prices.

Dennis Rhydian, leader of the Irish uprising, is shown in a portrait. He is a man with dark hair, wearing a suit and tie, looking slightly to the side.

Lending Library Now Available

Saturday afternoon last saw quite a stream of people availing themselves of the privileges of the new public lending library which is situated in the Gas Company's office on Main street.

Members of the executive have undertaken to attend to the duties of "running things" and the exchange privilege is now set for Wednesday afternoons from 3 to 5 p.m., and Saturdays from 3 to 5.30 and 8 to 10.30 p.m.

Subscription cards are available for the small sum of one dollar a year for adults from fifteen years and up, while children under that age are allowed to borrow books from the juvenile section free.

A small fine is tacked on to tardy borrowers who do not bring their books at the due date of return.

Double Feature Billed For Elite

Though a crime story, "Midnight Madonna" is a family type picture. Widow "Kay Barrie" and her child "Penny" know nothing but poverty. Coming to the attention of night club owner and gambler "Denbo," "Kay" becomes an entertainer in his club and the child goes along as his good luck charm. "Penny's" grandfather names her inheritor of his estate, cutting his worthless son, "Vinny Long," off without a penny.

By perjured testimony, "Long" proves to be "Judge Clark" that "Kay" is not a fit person to be the child's guardian and "Penny" and her fortune is placed in his custody. Resorting to crime, "Denbo" kidnaps the judge, takes him into his underworld haunts and demonstrates to him that the witnesses did not know what they were talking about.

A Mexican Mexican bandit, raiding the borderland, is a thorn to the Texas Rangers and Mexican Secret Service. To learn the identity of the desperado, Hopalong Cassidy accepts his disgraceful discharge from the Rangers in order that the impression that he is a renegade may be accepted by one and all.

The plot is kept secret from Hopalong's pals, Johnny Nelson and Windy. However, Hopalong manages to become associated with the suspicious Loco, who masquerades as a crack-brained stamper. Ostensibly becoming a partner in a ruthless raid on the border, Hopalong leads Loco into a trap which brings the combined forces of the Rangers and Mexican police into the thrill action climax.

Past moving, with expertly photographed desert backgrounds, "Borderland" which is one of a double feature at the Elite next Mon., Tues. and Wed., is a picture that will be enjoyed by those who like to vary their programs by presenting classic western features.

Several of our townsfolk who were out motoring on Sunday had trouble in getting home owing to the sleet storm turning the roads into a sheer sheet of glass ice. A car collided with a horse on the Highway road causing considerable damage to the car and slightly injuring one of the occupants.

Romantic Drama of Irish Uprising

Against the seething dramatic background of the 1921 Irish uprising in Dublin, with all its ferocious struggles, of desperate, failing personal hatred and national enmity, "Beloved Enemy" at the Elite this week-end tells a heart-touching love story. It is a touching exposition of the sacrifices women make and the prices they pay as the men they love fight and die for a noble ideal.

Dennis Rhydian, idealistic leader of the desperate rebels, so bravely admits his identity to Britain when captured that they refuse to believe him. It's eruptive drama when O'Brien sacrifices his life to prevent the capture of Rhydian, which would mean death to the leader.

To Dublin comes Lord Athlete, accompanied by his daughter Helen, an English emissary charged with the responsibility of ascertaining how a centuries long conflict, can be successfully terminated. The first meeting of Dennis and Helen sees the thread of the appealing love story. Admiring this reckless man, her sympathies for Irish womanhood are aroused upon the occasion of her meeting with O'Brien's widow and child. Admiration for Dennis ripening into affection, Helen's hope is to do something to bring the bloody wars to an end. In that intent she almost betrays the man she has grown to love.

At a reception tendered by Athlete both sides make concessions. The British are willing to grant what they absolutely independence. That the dream of the obdurate Irish for centuries, is what the emissaries hold out for. It is the influence of Helen that causes Dennis to cast his vote that establishes the English flag.

Order-in-Council Announced, Sat.

Suspension until May 1, 1938, of the Order-in-Council amending the Rules of court in operation in Alberta in respect to the clerks of court, etc., prevented from entering judgments against the government, has been carried out by terms of another Order-in-Council, announcement of which was made on Saturday.

The amending order was passed on Sept. 24, provided that no clerk of the court or registrar, unless authorized to do so, should "file or enter, permit to be filed or entered, any statement of claim, petition, originating notice, statement of defence, counter claim, reply, record, notice of motion, notice of appeal of any other notice pleading or proceeding of any nature whatsoever which contains any allegation, statement of prayer which in any manner questions or contests the constitutional validity of any act of the legislature of the province of Alberta."

It was later the subject of a court action was declared ultra vires by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives.

No further action was taken by the government at this time.

The order suspending operation until May 1 is dated, Tuesday, Nov. 16.

Curlers Decide Their First Competition

During the last week the "President vs. Vice-Pres. Competition" was run off, total scores to date, the result being a win for the Vice-President's side. The scores were as follows:

President	Vice-President
J. Telford	W. E. Wasmuth
Prickleton	9 Mitchell
Murray, O.	11 Cowley, W.
Prosser	10 Murray, G.
Alderman	7 Wallace
McBride	12 Thurston
Courner	4 Springett
Cowley, V.	10 Schlitt
Telford	11 Cowley
Potras	13 McKenna
	87

This week the "Square" draw was commenced. More than usual interest is being shown in the sport this year and the condition of the ice and the neat appearance of the newly-decorated club room reflect great credit on President Telford.

Catching Up With Supper at Breakfast

A unique feature of the "Canada-1937" broadcasts is the overseas interviews with world-famous correspondents. The commentators literally speak "tomorrow" to Canadian audiences "today," for they are called upon to broadcast any time from 8 A.M. to breakfast time Saturday morning for what is a Friday night broadcast in Canada.

This unusual phase was illustrated with more than passing realism in a recent letter from Vernon Bartlett, editor of "World Review of Reviews" and "Canada-1937" European director. Writing to Victor George, in charge of production, Mr. Bartlett refers to one of his recent broadcasts from Brussels, saying in part—"After various difficulties because the Belgian studios 'had never opened at that hour before, I arrived and found the man on duty. It was more or less clear sailing after that."

Another "Canada-1937" feature is the Roving Radio Reporter, Walter Brown, on the third months tour of Canada. In order that we may know the "other fellow" better, he will interview people who are contributing to Canada's progress, bringing to light foundation stones in our national economic structure.

Current news of the entertainment world are brought to the program by L. S. B. Shapiro, speaking from New York.

The musical part of the program is of an outstanding nature. All the songs are specially arranged for the large "Canada-1937" orchestra and mixed choir. The two soloists Pauline Winters and Russ Titus lend distinctive vocal color to this modern pattern of melody.

"Canada-1937" is heard every Friday evening at 10 P.M., E.S.T., over a nation-wide network.

Urge Reduction Car License Fees

Reduction of motor car license fees in this province was urged in a resolution passed by the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association recently.

When the subject was under discussion it was generally agreed that the increase in gasoline tax in this province was out of all proportion to the reduction in car licenses. For that reason, the government was urged to give greater relief in the form of lower car licenses.

When an objection was expressed to a license for license or regulatory purposes, strong protest was expressed against this levy being made upon motorists solely for revenue purposes, when the gasoline tax had been created largely for such purposes.

Attention also has been drawn to the province of Ontario where substantial reductions were made this year in motor car and truck prices, resulting in large savings to car owners.

Also it is recalled that various conventions of provincial organizations have passed resolutions calling upon the government to reduce car license fees.

Crushing Taxes Carried, Gasoline

For a commodity which has become a necessity in so many lines of business activity, gasoline has been loaded with crushing tax.

In three provinces of the Dominion the tax content of every dollar's worth of gasoline purchased exceeds 30 cents a gallon and in all of them it is more than 25 cents.

The figures for the various provinces are: British Columbia, 36.29 cents; Alberta, 26.94 cents; Saskatchewan, 26.17 cents; Manitoba, 25.26 cents; Ontario, 28.9 cents; Quebec, 24.44 cents; New Brunswick, 31.68 cents; Nova Scotia, 32.08 cents; Prince Edward Island, 35.37 cents.

Over the Dominion, at large, it means that for every dollar a consumer puts into gasoline, 27.83 cents goes in taxes.

These figures do not indicate the complete tax content of a gallon of gasoline. They do indicate however, those which are directly charged by the refiner and marketer against an already over-taxed commodity.

Mrs. J. P. Ferguson, of Trochu, president of the Alberta Liberal Association, speaks over the Foot hills network Thursday, December 16 at 3.30 in the afternoon.

Four Eclipses In World During '38

In 1938, there will be four eclipses of the sun and two of the moon. A total eclipse of the moon will occur May 14, and will be partly visible at Toronto. The beginning will be generally visible in the western Atlantic ocean, North and South America, and the Pacific ocean, except in the northwestern part of the eastern extremity of Australia. The ending will be visible generally in the central and western part of North America, the Pacific ocean, Australia and the northeastern extremity of Asia.

A total eclipse of the sun will occur on May 29, 1938, but will not be visible in Toronto. A total eclipse of the moon on November 7 and 8 will be partly visible at Toronto, and the second eclipse of the sun on November 21-22 will be visible at Toronto.

Geological Map of Alberta Published

A new geological map of Alberta has just been published on a scale of one inch to sixteen miles. The map is printed in fifteen colors as soft tints which are easy to read. Each color represents a certain division of geological time which is designated in the legend. On the black base is shown the geography, the geological boundaries; and the culture, which includes the township and range lines; all the railways, the cities and several towns. All the surveyed lines, including the base lines, are shown.

The topography is shown by brown contour lines, with 400-foot intervals up to 5,000 feet. The topographical and geological data shown on this map have been compiled from maps and reports published by the Topographical Survey and the Geological Survey of Canada, and by the Research Council of Alberta.

About one-half of the entire area of Alberta remains unmapped geologically in detail. It is only a part of the foothills and the plains of Alberta in the south half of the province which have been mapped in any detail. Only two geological divisions are shown within the Rocky Mountains, namely, the older Precambrian and early Paleozoic in the western part, and the Paleozoic and older Mesozoic in the eastern part of the mountains. The Precambrian area in northeastern Alberta is undivided as detailed geological surveys have not yet been made.

In the foothills and plains the distribution of all the major geological formations in the Cretaceous and the Tertiary are shown. The map can be relied upon as a useful guide by anyone interested in the mineral development in Alberta. A pamphlet, is being prepared which will describe the geological features which have been included.

The map has been compiled by Dr. A. J. Allan of the Department of Geology, University of Alberta, and is a revision of the geological map which he prepared and which was published by the Research Council of Alberta in 1925. This revised edition has been published with the co-operation of the Department of Lands and Mines, Edmonton. Copies of the map may be secured on application to the Department.

Reduced Fares For Christmas-New Year

WINNIPEG.—Special reduced rail fares for the Christmas and New Year holiday season are announced by R. Creelman, Passenger Traffic Manager, Western Lines, Canadian National Railways. There will be two classes of fares in effect between all stations.

For the entire holiday season, there will be a low rate of single fare and one-third for round trip, going from December 21 to January 7 inclusive, with a return limit of January 7.

There will also be a special low rate of single fare and one-quarter for round trip for each holiday week-end, from December 23 to December 26, tickets will be good to return leaving "destination" up to and including December 27. For the New Year week-end, tickets will be on sale from December 30 to January 2 and will be good to return leaving "destination" up to and including January 3. All special low fares will be good in day coaches, tourist and standard sleeping cars.

ALL HIGHWAY WORK IS NOW ENDED

All highway projects throughout the province on which work was undertaken this year, have been completed with the exception of some travelling to the west of Edmonton, the Strathmore-Gleichen section and in other isolated sections according to Hon. W. A. Aulow, minister of public works.

The minister said that while official figures had not yet been placed on his desk, he had been informed that the common excavation price on an 80 mile stretch between Okotoks and Macleod would be 14 and one cents a yard.

CIVIL SERVANTS WANT DEDUCTIONS STOPPED

EDMONTON, Alta.—Discontinuance of "voluntary contributions for unemployment relief," deducted from the salaries of civil servants by agreement since 1931, was urged in resolutions received from numerous branches of the civil service association and approved during final sessions of the two-day annual convention here.

The voluntary contribution was made "to assist the government during the depression following the crash in the financial world," with the distinct understanding that it would be discontinued immediately conditions changed for the better.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. J. Fraser is still on the sick list at the hospital.

Government Sets Minimum Price

EDMONTON.—Calculated to prevent "price wars" and dumping of goods by merchants, an order-in-council prohibiting sale of merchandise under certain prices has been passed by the Alberta government, it was announced last week. The order, authorized under the Trade and Industry Act, declares:

"The sale of featuring or offering for sale of goods, wares or merchandise by a retailer in any locality at less than 5 per cent above the recognized wholesale price in such locality is hereby declared an unfair trade practice and is prohibited."

Asked if the order-in-council could be regarded as the first step in application of the "just price," one of the main features of "social credit," a government official said: "There is not the slightest reason for such a suspicion."

The government official said it was felt a "definite percentage" should be fixed in regard to "loss leader prices."

He added immediate prosecutions of merchants were not planned. They will be given "plenty of time to obtain a full understanding of what is required," he said.

BRAZIL goes Fascist. The new President of Brazil has promulgated a new Constitution which puts all power in the hands of the President and relegates the Brazilian Congress to the background as it seems to be the first definite establishment of a Fascist form of government in the Western Hemisphere. President Getulio Vargas refers to the new government as a "corporative state," which is exactly what Mussolini calls his Fascist government in Italy.

The importance of this leap of Fascism across the Atlantic at this time is what it may signify in the light of the close alliance of the Dictator-governed nations of the world. Italy and Germany have taken Japan into their alliance with the avowed purpose of opposing the spread of democracy. I have no idea how closely Brazil's new dictator is in league with those three powers, but that there is a tie is more than possible.

Italy, Germany and Japan demand more of the earth than they have, for their surplus population. All of them have been planting colonies of their nationals in Brazil for years, particularly Germany. The United States is bound by the Monroe Doctrine to maintain the independence of South American states. The Brazilian situation may make trouble for us.

MONROE "hands off." President James Monroe sounded his warning to Europe to keep hands off South America in 1823. In a message to Congress he wrote:

"The political system of the allied powers is essentially different from that of America... we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any part of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety... The American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

That doctrine was aimed at a different system of European government than exists today, and at an alliance far different from Fascism. But it has served as a "hands off" notice to the world for 114 years.

If the present extension of a European system of government to Brazil has the backing of the Fascist states or results in an alliance with them, certainly will be up to our government to take notice and do something to protect and maintain our

EMPEROR of Brazil was a tall, handsome old man with the longest, thickest, white beard ever seen. He was a good ruler, but the people of Brazil took the government into their own hands in 1889 and demanded his resignation. They adopted a constitution almost an exact copy of ours, with 20 provinces federated as the United States of Brazil.

Simon Bolivar, "the Liberator," had successfully incited the Spanish colonies of South America to declare their independence half a century earlier. Brazil, being Portuguese instead of Spanish, did not come under Bolivar's influence and was quite content to be ruled by a member of the Portuguese royal House of Braganza.

Indeed, Rio de Janeiro was for a short time the actual capital of Portugal, when the events of the Napoleonic wars forced Dom John VI, the Portuguese emperor, to move himself and the royal court across the Atlantic in 1808. Brazil's history is indeed curious and colorful.

ECONOMICS The reason at the bottom of the Brazilian dictatorship is the low economic state into which the country has fallen. Probably the richest agricultural territory in the whole world, Brazil has few of the mineral resources found elsewhere in South America, but prospered for many years by building up almost a world monopoly of coffee-growing.

Brazil's coffee "valorization" plan is the oldest and until lately the most successful scheme of government crop control and state subsidized agriculture in the world. By limiting planting, burning up surplus coffee and controlling exports the Brazilian government was able to feed coffee into the world markets in doses measured by the demand, at highly profitable prices, but if other nations tried to market coffee Brazil could, and did, under them and practically ruin their coffee-planters.

The collapse of Brazil's coffee-valorization system, due to the weakening of purchasing power and the government's inability to borrow money enough to pay its debts on the security of warehouse coffee, broke the world's coffee market in October. The financial panic and unemployment that followed was the economic rebuke to President Vargas' seizure of dictatorial power.

PEOPLE seek leader

Progressive, courageous, independent and intelligent as are the Portuguese people in Brazil, the old Portuguese cloak is very thinly disguised. The government of Brazil, therefore, while nominally a democracy, has been since 1889 a government by a political oligarchy in which only a small fraction of the people participated. The loyalty of most Brazilians is to their king, King Peter, and the nation second. Those conditions made it easy for the leader of a minority clique to seize power under pretext of pulling the nation out of economic distress by Fascist methods.

The World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

"Can Thatcher, the new rust-resistant wheat, be used as an early variety to replace Garnet?" Many farmers in northern Alberta and Saskatchewan are asking that question; knowing, of course, that Thatcher is eligible to go into the grades No. 1 and No. 2 Northern, from which Garnet is excluded. The results of thousands of tests, made by hundreds of "Crop Testing Plant" Elevator Agents, in cooperation with many farmers and with Governmental Institutions, reveal definitely that Thatcher not only is the highest yielding of all spring wheats, but that in addition it about three days earlier than Marquis.

Because of this earliness, Thatcher certainly will escape damage from some early fall frosts which might harm Marquis. Garnet, however, being ten days earlier than Marquis is still seven days earlier than Thatcher.

I therefore strongly advise farmers who have decided to replace Garnet with Thatcher, to treat their Thatcher seed against smut and root rot diseases with a mercurial dust—either Ceresan or Leytoman—and particularly to use fertilizer, either ammonium phosphate or triple superphosphate. These treatments will cause Thatcher to mature at least a week earlier than Marquis, making it about as early as Red Bobs or Reward and then not more than two or three days later than Garnet.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Frost in Argentina—Un satisfactory condition parts of U.S. winter wheat belt—Much Russian wheat of inferior quality—Rumour U.S. may again raise gold value—Wet weather interferes with seeding in Italy and Spain—Dry weather hinders South African crop growth.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Russia makes large wheat shipments—Argentine acreage estimates of wheat, oats, flax and rye show increase—Chilean wheat shipments increased slightly—Harvesting commences in Australia—Expect resumption Roumanian children, the estate would be broken up. So he warned them that all men were after their money, and when sailors came to call on them, he frankly told them not to call again. Only one of the sisters, Miss Rebecca, married, and she didn't marry until she was sixty years old. The others faded into a desolate old age and died without companions. The story of their wasted lives is a pitiful illustration of how little money, in itself, can mean.

Georgiana, the most spirited of the sisters, fought against her family restrictions until she developed a persecution mania and had to be sent away. For twenty years, she was confined to an institution for the mentally ill, and when she died, in 1930, most of her friends thought she had been dead for years. She was worth five million dollars, but it didn't bring her five cents' worth of happiness.

Another sister, Josephine, lived alone in one of the Wendel country houses surrounded by no one but servants. The pitiful part of it is that she dreamed of the house being filled with noisy, happy children, and used to talk and play with them. She imagined that people came to see her, and she used to have her servants set six places at the dinner table. As each course was served, she would change places, pretending that she was all of the guests in turn.

One by one, as the sisters died, the rooms they had occupied were locked, and the shutters closed; until finally Miss Ella left on only her bedroom, her dining-room downstairs, and the large bare white stairs where she and her sisters had passed their lonely school days. For years, she lived alone in that spooky, four-room house with a few faithful old servants and her French poodle dog.

Toby, kept in Ella's room in a little four-poster bed exactly like his mother's, and Toby ate his biscuits and pork chops in the dining-room at a special brass table spread with a velvet cloth.

When Ella Wendel died, she left millions of dollars to the Methodist Church for missionary work, yet she herself had seldom gone to church.

She died believing she hadn't a living relative in the world; but within a year, presto, two thousand allied relatives and kindred sprang up like mushrooms all over the earth.

John Gottlieb Wendel never made a will. He said he "didn't want any lawyer making money out of his property." Well, the joke was on him, for before the estate was settled, not only one lawyer, but two hundred and fifty lawyers had pocketed fees out of the gold-rush for the Wendel millions.

B. Leslie Emalie, C.D.A. (Glas.) F.C.S.

MANURE NEEDS REINFORCING

All animal manures are notably low in phosphoric acid, the substance most needed in fertilizers because deficient in nearly all soils, owing largely to the heavy draft made thereon by animals which require it in large quantities for bone-building, milk production and other physiological processes. While more than half the nitrogen and potash of the animal excreta is present in the urine, the latter contains only traces of phosphoric acid. This, admittedly, makes manure unbalanced as a fertilizer and explains the favourable effect of fertilizers high in phosphate when used as a supplement to manure.

Some really progressive farmers are now using special granular stable phosphate which is scattered in and behind the gutter and part way up the stall, at the rate of about one pound per animal per day. Besides more than doubling the phosphoric acid content and value of the manure, the practice has the added advantage of cleanliness, keeping down stable odours, absorbing and retaining valuable ammonia nitrogen which would otherwise escape as a gas. It reduces the number of flies in the stable and is now recommended as a preventive of mastitis.

MECHANICAL SPREADERS FOR GRASSHOPPER POISONED BAIT

Many farmers have constructed mechanical bait spreaders and operated them successfully during the past few years. The Dominion experimental station at Swift Current has studied various types of these home-made bait spreaders, and as a result, is able to offer some suggestions to those who contemplate constructing such machines for future emergencies.

A complete automatic bait spreader comprises three main parts or assemblies, each of which performs a distinct operation essential to the complete function of the machine. These are briefly described as follows:

1. The Hopper and Automatic Feed Device.

The hopper may consist of a half or full-size barrel depending on the size of the drum. An agitator or feed bar made from half-inch round iron or 1 1/2" x 3/4" flat iron revolves the side and close to the bottom of the hopper. This bar gets its motion from the shaft of the rotating spreader table below to which it is fastened. An opening, 1 1/4" x 2 1/2", in the bottom of the hopper is the outlet for the bait. The size of this outlet may be varied with a metal slide to regulate the amount of bait delivered. The rotating agitator or feed bar causes bait to fall through the outlet. A circular baffle, two inches smaller in diameter than the barrel with a hole three inches in diameter in its centre, is suspended two inches above the bottom of the hopper by four quarter-inch round iron rods hooked over the top side. This ensures free flow of the bait and free movement of the agitator or feed bar.

2. The Spreader Table.

This consists of four or more blades spaced equal distances apart and fastened to the top side of a disk or round table. The disk or table is made from one-inch lumber with the top surface covered with sheet metal. The blades and disk revolve together horizontally. Combine harvester-thresher straw spreaders and large tractor radiator fans may be used for the purpose. To do the most efficient work, the tips of the blades should travel approximately 2,400 feet per minute. A spreader table three feet in diameter would revolve about 254 times per minute. It may not be possible to obtain this speed with parts and gearing available. However, lower speeds will give reasonably good results.

3. Methods of Driving.

Power for operating the bait spreader can be obtained from pulleys attached to a rear wheel of a wagon or a truck. An automobile wheel tire can be clamped to the inside of the wagon wheel to serve as a pulley. If the tire rim is lagged with belting, it is satisfactory for driving either a belt or a sprocket chain. An ordinary pulley or an automobile brake drum may be clamped to the outside of a truck wheel. A tighter pulley with spring tension is necessary to keep the chain or belt taut. When the chain or belt is slackened by releasing the tighter pulley, the wagon or truck can be moved without operating the bait spreader.

Rear axles of automobiles complete with hubs, propeller shaft, and housing furnish the essential driving parts of an auto-trailer type or bait spreader. The length of the propeller shaft and housing is reduced to about 20 to 30 inches. The propeller shaft and housing is secured in a vertical position. A spreader table is fastened to the propeller shaft. The propeller shaft may be extended up through the bottom of a hopper to drive the agitator or feed bar. A loading platform may be added to the trailer. This auto-trailer type gives good results when hitched behind a car, light delivery truck or a heavier farm truck, and hauled about 15 miles per hour.

Further information on mechanical grasshopper bait spreaders and their place in the campaign against that pest may be obtained from the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, Regina, Edmonton or Wainwright; the Dominion Entomological Laboratories, Lethbridge, Saskatoon or Brandon; or the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current.

whether or not all colds are due to infections, but we have all seen colds run through the family and the workplace. It is not practical to isolate everyone who has a cold, although such a person would be more comfortable and better off in bed. We can, however, do something to prevent them from passing on their colds to others.

Coughs and sneezes should be directed into a handkerchief and, in all cases, at the floor rather than into people's faces. The person who has a cold should not prepare food, but if he or she must, then there must be a very thorough scrubbing of the hands with soap and water before food is touched.

There should be no common drinking cups in the home or elsewhere. Dishes should be washed and then rinsed in boiling water. The hands should be washed before touching food, and kept away from the face at all times.

To some extent, such reasonable precautions will serve to lessen the number of common colds and other infections.

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

COMMON COLD

The common cold is much more than an affliction of the individual who has it; it is a social nuisance. Just because it is "common" and because, in most cases, it is not fatal, it is looked upon as a necessary evil; we accept rather than shun those who are sneezing, coughing and snuffling.

This wide-spread disease is an expensive trouble-maker. It causes more lost time from work and school than does any other disease. It interferes with education and costs millions of dollars in loss of production and wages. While it is annoying, it receives but little attention as compared with the rather rare, but more startling because unusual, diseases.

Considerable research has been carried on with the hope of clearing the way to an understanding of the common cold and how it may be prevented, or its severity lessened. So far, no great success has attended these efforts, and we are left to rely upon what we have learned from past experience.

Those who suffer from repeated colds should make sure that their nose and throat are in good condition. Faults in structure may lie at the root of repeated or continued head colds.

Clothing suited to the temperature, both in and out of doors, prevents chilling of the body from either too little clothing or the chilling which follows upon excessive perspiration due to over-tightening while indoors. Cold wet feet predispose to head colds. By keeping the feet dry, or by drying them promptly if they do become wet, much trouble may be averted.

There may be argument as to Miss Marion E. She has been a member of the Maine Legislature since 1930, having served two terms as Representative and two as Senator.

For her great interest in advancing the Central Kindergarten Normal School of Seoul, Korea, Miss Louise Yim, a native of Korea and a graduate of the University of Southern California, has been awarded a distinguished service medal by citizens of her own country. This is considered a great honor for a woman and especially for one in her early thirties. The normal school was organized in 1912 by the Central Methodist church in conjunction with the Central Kindergarten. Miss Yim took charge in 1935 when conditions were not very promising. Debts were wiped out, the school reorganized and moved into new buildings and land has been purchased on the outskirts of Seoul for more buildings.

Conquered Climate

THE STATESMEN who laid the foundations of this nation sought a diversification of industry to avert the cessation of work when winter came. The seeking was not in vain, for today the factories and mines and commercial enterprises of Canada level off that seasonal unemployment which was the bane of all Canada when the prairies were not yet settled and our manufactured products were mostly imported.

THIS INDUSTRY—the manufacture of cotton textiles—is one which helps to offset seasonal unemployment in the winter months when outdoor work is not feasible. When the country as a whole is prosperous, the mills of this company, for one, provide steady work for more than 7,000 persons. The primary cotton textile industry as a whole employs upwards of 20,000 persons. If there is a slack season, it is most likely to occur in July and August when other work is comparatively less difficult to obtain.

DIVERSIFIED farming is not always feasible; even Easterners fond of lecturing the West, are coming to admit that fact. But diversification on a nationwide scale was seen by our forefathers to be fundamentally important. The extent to which such diversification has been attained is the extent to which we Canadians can progress in good times and withstand economic shocks in bad times.

ANTHOCYANINURIA

Kenneth aged six came running with John's little pot. John aged two trotted along behind. Both children's faces shone with an excitement that was compounded of pride and fear. Kenneth felt important as the bearer of startling evidence, John in the accomplishment of an unprecedented feat. Within the pot was the liquid which John had just produced. It was a rather vivid red.

Now if mother had been scared, had looked startled, had cried: Oh dear whatever is that? then the children's anxiety would quickly have changed to pain and stress and step into the plastic minds and left its scars perhaps for life. But mother showed not even a trace of surprise. All she said was: Betoots and from the tone of her voice the youngsters knew at once that whatever lay behind the mystery it was nothing that they need fear.

Then mother explained to them that when little boys or girls eat lots of beets sometimes the color from the beets goes into the blood, from the blood into the kidneys and comes out into the urine. If she had been a doctor talking to grownups she might have added that the beetroot dye is named anthocyanin and the passage of beet-stained urine goes by the grand name of anthocyaninuria. That's something for you to be proud of, isn't it, John; even though it is commoner than you supposed?

Happy the children who can buffer themselves from dread of the unknown by the wisdom and tact of a mother who understands.

WHERE THE TAXES HIT

Digging into the subject of taxes as they affect the average citizen, Dr. Mabel Newcomer of Vassar College, working under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Fund, has found it to be true, as many have long suspected, that the lower an individual's income, the higher proportion of it he pays in hidden taxes.

By adding together all the taxes, direct and hidden, Dr. Newcomer reports that people in the upper income brackets, who pay direct taxes, have a heavier tax burden as their incomes increase. But people with incomes of $2,000 a year or less, who pay no income taxes and usually no direct property taxes, are penalized by hidden taxes so that the less money a man makes, the higher percentage of his income he must pay out in taxes.

It is the "hidden" taxes, passed on by manufacturers, producers and distributors to the ultimate consumer, that bear the hardest on the poor, says the report.

DIESEL ENGINES

A great deal is being heard, these days, about Diesel engines but not many people know the difference between the Diesel type of engine and any other.

The principle of the Diesel engine is that if you compress the fuel of an internal-combustion engine enough, it will heat up, from pressure alone, to the point of explosion. The ordinary gasoline engine requires an electric spark to explode the fuel in the cylinder. The Diesel engine needs no electrical equipment, no battery, no wires, no spark-plugs. It can run on cheap fuel oil such as is used in oil-burning furnaces—even on crude oil. Therefore, it is economical in fuel, and in cost of upkeep.

The Diesel's handicap is its weight. It needs extraordinarily strong cylinders to withstand high pressure. On the other hand, its weight is not such a serious matter. On airplanes it is very serious; yet aircraft makers are experimenting and have built at least one successful Diesel-engine plane. The advantage in the air is that the Diesel engine gets more power from a pound of low-grade oil than a gas engine gets from a pound of gasoline, thus lessening the fuel load. Also the oil is not inflammable, so the danger of an airplane catching fire is eliminated.

Light-weight Diesel engines are coming into use for trucks. Motor manufacturers hold out hope for a practical Diesel engine for passenger cars. If they get it, they promise fifty miles to the gallon of oil, costing less than half as much per gallon as gasoline—and no spark-plug or battery trouble.

That's something to look forward to.

TRAILER MIGRATION

Along all the main highways leading South through the States, the procession of migrating trailers is beginning to grow larger every day. Like the birds, the ordinary people of America are forming the habit of seeking warm climates in winter. And like the turtles, many take their homes with them.

Life in a trailer is the gasoline age's answer to the gypsy urge which is more or less universal in the human spirit. All of us have a twinge of wanderlust in our blood, on inheritance from our remote ancestors of thousands of years ago. The history of mankind is a story of exploration and migration. It is no longer practical for most people to set out, as did the forefathers of most of us, to find new lands and take our families and household goods over the mountains and across the prairies, relying on the Kentucky rifle and the curved-belted axe for protection, sustenance and shelter. Life has become too soft in America for that sort of pioneering.

Yet the urge persists to move on to new lands. We are still filled with curiosity to see what is on the other side of the hills. And the trailer provides the opportunity to wander without detaching ourselves too far from the conveniences and comforts of the civilized life to which we have become accustomed, at the least possible expense.

Mrs. G. Leroux, who has been spending the summer in Turner Valley came home at the week-end, and is preparing to return there with her family at the end of this week.

CAMROSE MAN INVENTS NEW ROAD MACHINE

Invention of a Camrose man, H. Burnstad, a new type of leveling device, which claims to be a greater efficiency and economy of operation, is being stored in the provincial government garage storage yards in Manchester pending the spring, when it will be placed in operation on highways of the province going, with several others already on order. It is claimed the new machine can be operated by a 30-horsepower tractor, whereas former types required 60-75 horsepower.

CATTALO CALVES ARE PUT UP FOR SALE

MONTREAL.—After a journey from Alberta in a Canadian National cattle car, five Cattalo calves have taken up temporary residence in the Montreal stockyards, to be the cynosure of whose eyes. When they are put up for sale it will be the first time Cattalo have been offered on the public market. Fruits of an experiment, they are a cross between the domestic cow and the bison—better known as buffalo—of the Western plains. The calves weigh between 250 and 300 pounds.

MAN MADE RUBBER IS CHEMIST'S LATEST

Rubber from coal, limestone, salt and water? Sounds incredible, yet it is true. The chemist has produced it and it has already demonstrated its superiority for certain industrial uses over natural rubber. A writer in the current issue of C-I-L Oval describes how the new rubber, Neoprene, unlike natural rubber, resists the deteriorating effects of sunlight, heat, oils, acids and gases. Cable manufacturers are using it to insulate electric wires and cables because it will resist flame and thereby lessen fire hazards.

ALICE STEVEN'S HOME SERVICE

Do you have any trouble getting your sauces and gravies smooth and free from lumps? I'm sorry to say that I do. Not only is there the danger of lumps but there are sticky flour dishes to wash as well.

When raw flour is packed in a cup, it is very compact and the starch grains are not divided. When a hot liquid comes in contact with these starch grains, they begin to cook and swell. Unless they are separated, they do not all come in contact with the hot liquid at the same time and the lumps are sure to appear. Then down comes the strainer to take the lumps from the gravy.

To prevent these lumps, it is necessary to separate the starch grains and this may be done with cold liquid, sugar or melted fat. Any one of these three can be mixed with the flour, so that the starch grains are separated and can be combined smoothly.

That answers some of the difficulties but not all of them. The flour mixture must be stirred until it is thick. The heat strikes the bottom of the pan and it cooks more quickly than the top. Unless this thick cooked part is stirred into the thin top part, the resulting mixture will be lumpy.

When the mixture is thick it is still not quite completed. It will have a raw starchy taste. This can be removed by further cooking. Cook at least ten minutes, at the back of the stove, or in a double boiler if it is a milk mixture.

So separating the starch grains, stirring the mixture and completing the cooking will help us over most of the difficulties but there is still the problem of the sticky dishes to solve. Soak them in cold water, then in hot, as the hot water tends to cook the flour mixture and make it stick to the dish.

Here is another tip. The flour is often hard to blend with the cold water. Put the flour in an empty milk bottle and add the cold liquid. Put the cap in position and shake. This mixes the flour and water better than you can mix it with spoon and bowl.

Flour is used to thicken liquids a number of times a day in most homes. It is used for desserts, such as blanc mange, for pudding sauces and gravies. It is used for pie fillings, salad dressing and for white sauce. Cream soups, scalloped dishes, and creamed vegetable use white sauce. These are popular hot supper dishes that you will get plenty of practice this time of year in using flour as a thickening agent.

Here is a recipe you can try for supper tonight. It has no need of flour to thicken the gravy, as apples are cooked with the meat. This recipe was given me by a very dear friend and she tells me it is one of their old family recipes. She calls it "Meat and Apple Pie" but her mother called it "Squab Pie."

Slice 3 large McIntosh apples. Add cut up cooked meat, either beef or lamb. Add one onion, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon of salt and a dash of cinnamon and cloves. Put on stove and bring to a boil. Make a rich biscuit dough, using one cup of flour and then bake for twenty to thirty minutes.

I have another recipe for a hot supper dish, which I would be pleased to send you. There is no charge. Write to Alice Stevens, c/o this paper.

A 15,000,000 Meat Parade - HEADED EAST!

The Eastern industrial worker likes Western meats. He consumed over $15,000,000 worth of it last year, providing a valuable source of income to thousands of prairie province farmers. These farmers shipped him 175,705 head of cattle; 21,144 calves and 41,557 hogs and 127,000 tons (not pounds) of fresh and cured dressed meat as well. And meat is only one of the Western items that goes on the table of the Eastern worker. He bought well over $15,000,000 worth of grains, poultry, eggs, honey and other commodities, and consumed no less than 10,000 tons of butter to the value of another $4,500,000.

The well-being of such a market—a market aggregating over $40,000,000—is of vital value to you. It is to your interest to have the Eastern industrial worker in steady employment, the steadier the better, for the steadier his work the greater his consumption of your products.

Western purchases of Made-in-Canada cars mean work, not only to the automotive and allied industries, but in hundreds of other plants as well. They mean pay-rolls and pay-rolls mean purchasing power.

And don't forget that this domestic market brings far better prices than does the export market.

There are 18,000 workers in Canada's automobile plants, and 15,000 employed in the 202 parts and accessories plants. An average of four in a family means over 150,000 people whose prosperity depends in whole or in part on the activities of the motor car builders. Add to all this, the employment of railways who carry by traffic and who much of the $40,000,000 spent last year for Western farm products. Therefore, all Canada—West as well as East—is vitally interested in a sound and well-supplied Canadian Automobile Industry.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automotive Industries, 1006 Lansden Building, Toronto.

Stuart Cloete has written a savage and magnificent book. This seems to be an age of great first novels. Two years ago we had Margaret Mitchell. Today we have Cloete. It is not difficult for a reviewer to predict almost as large a harvest of readers for the newcomer in the field. A million or so more or less does not seem much to matter.

A vast immediate audience can be secured for a book that we have Cloete. It is not difficult for a reviewer to predict almost as large a harvest of readers for the newcomer in the field. A million or so more or less does not seem much to matter.

and Rikals' fantastic journey through the Zulu lines is a fine piece of romantic invention.

A singularly quiet but beautiful book is John Drinkwater's post-humous Robinson of England. Its appeal is to lovers of England, and when you are momentarily weary of plot and counterplot and high tension excitement you will find a refreshment in its pages that will repay you.

All the zest of adventurous endeavour will be found in the early pages of Roberta's Northwest Passage. Langdon Towne and the Harvard authorities have had a disagreement, so he solves his difficulties by enlisting in Roberta's Rangers. His purpose is rather to paint Indians than to fight, but before he gets through with it he learns what bush warfare is in its harshest conditions. It is the last year of the war, and the redoubtable Rogers has been ordered to wipe out the Indian town of St. Francis. Half the book deals with the incredible hardships of the advance and retreat, and unquestionably this portion of the narrative is vigorous and exciting in the highest degree.

The second half is of a totally different character. Its purpose is twofold. Langdon Towne's development as a painter and his love romance furnish some of the interest, but the main value of the book does not lie in this direction. The chief concern of the author is to follow the declining fortunes of Major Rogers. His downfall is tragic, and is explained partly by the machinations of his enemies, Sir William Johnson, the most powerful and sinister of these, and partly by the degeneration of his own character. His vehemence led him to the heights, but the violence of his nature carries with it the seeds of its decay. The study does not lack subtlety, but the author has not succeeded in weaving these varied strands into a coherent whole.

The last book to be noted is Dr. Cronin's The Citadel. It is a highly effective story, and holds the reader's interest from cover to cover. The book is propagandist fiction, and the medical profession will have some reason to think its statement of the case unfair. They will feel that the author has made the particular instance stand for the general rule, and that the public at large will conclude that the standards of medical practice are regrettably low, and the etiquette of the profession overdue for a thorough house-cleaning. It would be unfair to the author to charge him with this intention, but it is temptingly true that the propaganda trail you are not always master of your direction.

There is no space here to tell the story. A newly fledged doctor, Andrew Manson, is the central character. Through his early struggles he keeps his ambitions unsullied, and he has a splendid wife, Christine, to support him. With prosperity comes the change and he is sucked into the current of a lucrative London practice. The book ends as we had expected, with his victory over this temptation, but Christine, his wife, is dead.

This is the best novel from Dr. Cronin's pen, and sustains his reputation as an author of books that matter.

The Legion Notice Board

Due to inclement weather and other unforeseen circumstances, the regular monthly executive meeting was postponed until next Monday, December 13th.

We are in receipt of a communication from our Dominion President announcing that there will shortly be placed upon the market "Canadian Legion" cigarettes. General Ross says in part—

"It will be, I think, with a feeling of great pleasure and pardonable pride in their organization, that all Legion Members will receive this information. The fact that the Legion has been considered a sufficiently important institution to warrant the introduction of what might be termed a special 'Club' cigarette is indeed a tribute to its worthiness, strength and influence. There is, however, an even deeper significance to the arrangement.

"The Dominion Command will receive, in return for the right to use the Legion Crest, a royalty on all Canadian Legion cigarettes sold whether such sales are made to Legion members or to the general public.

"The terms of the agreement are sufficiently generous so that, if the cigarette is loyally supported, it should be our National Magazine. "Comrades of the Legion, here is a unique opportunity. Here is the answer to all our financial difficulties. No work or expenditure of money is required on our part. It is a sound and legitimate transaction and for success it only requires the cooperation of each individual member."

So roll up, you cigarette smokers, and boost the cause along. Perhaps, if this proves a success arrangement may be made to provide a smoking tobacco and a cigarette under our crest. If not, this scribble may be tempted to discard our present well-seasoned and highly-flavoured incinerator and take to cigarettes—the old reprobate.

Says Lady Writer

TORONTO.—Canada should send experts to world wheat countries, particularly Russia "to keep us posted," Dr. E. Cora Hind of Winnipeg told the Women's Canadian Club. "Russia is, and may be, increasingly a menace to Canada in the wheat market of the world," she said, adding the world could do without Canadian wheat unless the price is right.

Dr. Hind, speaking after a two-year globe-girdling trip in which she visited 37 countries, declared Canadian wheat should be produced on fewer acres with larger yields per acre and at lower costs. It should be sold at the world price.

Advising Canadians they should be thankful they lived in this country, she said: "It's a great place to be. After travelling around the world I felt that Canadians should know something of the advantages of their own country and should work a little more carefully and diligently to maintain their freedom and their good opportunities."

SHORT SESSION OF ONTARIO HOUSE ENDED

TORONTO, Ont. — Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews recently prorogued the shortest legislature session in Ontario's history—a special session which opened on Wednesday saw legislators at work for less than four hours during the whole three days.

Passed during the session were three bills to make easier the collection of overdue succession duties and to end certain lawsuits in connection with these activities.

CLAIM TARIFFS IMPOSE BURDEN ON PRAIRIES

Manitoba's government, in a brief presented before the royal commission on dominion-provincial relations, attacked the "upward and ever widening" trend of Canadian tariff policy as "probably the most unfair development arising out of the federation of the provinces."

High tariffs had increased production costs so western Canada grain growers were placed at a disadvantage in world export markets the government claimed.

It was estimated tariffs imposed a burden of approximately $58,000,000 a year on the prairie provinces, a "heavy price to pay for the privilege of being in confederation."

SECOND INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle L ranch to find his father dead and sinister forces at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison.

"Ten of us got our herds already started on the trail. I come on about to sort break trail, yuh might say. The short, quick way into the Kicapo range for us is straight through this country. That's what I was lookin' for Arthur about. Said he had a business proposition to talk over with us."

Abe Fornachon was nobody's fool. He held out his hand. "My name's Fornachon," he said. "Glad to know yuh, Tisdale. Shore yuh don't mind my sayin' that yore bronc looks like it could stand a couple of feeds of oats and a good rest. I'm haldin' for the Circle L, a couple miles along. Yuh better drift over with me an' rest yoreself an' yore hoss. When'd yuh eat last?"

At the sound of Abe's approach the stranger turned in his saddle and stopped.

"Danged early this mornin'," grinned Tisdale. "Ain't no particular rush about me seein' Arthur; I can see him tonight. I'm with yuh." At the Circle L they found Slim and Dakota perched on the corral fence, deep in thoughtful conversation. Slim looked up and waved to Abe. The Dot H Dot foreman saw that Slim was carrying a pair of guns. He and Tisdale dismounted.

"Slim—Dakota, meet a gent from the Big Bend country. Tisdale, this is Slim Loyale and Dakota Blue. When the round of hand-claps was over, Abe explained. Slim nodded generously. "Glad yuh dropped in Tisdale. Shore, we try an' treat folks. I'll tell Oscar to set yuh out a meal, an' I'll loan yuh a fresh bronc. Yores looks pretty gaunt."

Leaving Tisdale at his meal, Slim went outside again. Dakota, his eyes hot with interest, beckoned him. "Abe," he said, "tell Slim what yuh just told me." Abe did so, starting with information of Arthur's visit to the Dot H Dot and his ultimatum. Then he went on about his meeting with Tisdale and what the rancher had told him.

"Get it?" snapped Dakota, as Abe finished. Slim nodded his head, a grim look on his countenance.

"Shore," exulted Dakota, "I can see it plain now—the whole dirty, high-handed scheme. Abe, I love yuh like a brother for runnin' him here. Shore, we'll spike Arthur an' Starbuck's an' Brockwell's guns now."

"Get this. There's just one feasible route to the Kicapo range from the Big Bend country; that is, a route to drive a herd of cattle over. I know that country. Those herds will come north through Lawler Basin, then along the west edge of the Flytrapas Roughs and finally hit the south end of Jericho Valley."

"An' yuh know where Jericho opens out; it opens right on the Circle L and the Dot H Dot range."

Man, there'll be thousands an' thousands of cattle passin' here inside another month.

"Naturally, them Big Bend owners expect to pay a certain amount per head to take 'em across this range. It's only fair that they should. Them cattle will eat a lot of grass in passin', an' we're gonna have some extra expense in hirin' extra hands to keep our own cattle from mixin' in with the trail herds."

"Here's the scheme, Arthur. Starbuck and Brockwell are figgerin' on, I'll bet a laig. They've planned on these herds comin' through over this range. An' they schemed to get hold of the Circle L an' the Dot H Dot. Once them trail herds get crowdin' well into Jericho, the Big Bend men could be held up somethin' scandalous."

"Time's damn important with 'em. That Kicapo range won't last long, for it's a case of first come, first served. They'll stand for damn near highway robbery to get their neck across in time. An' if Arthur, Starbuck and Brockwell controlled the Dot H Dot and the Circle L, they could make 'em pay and pay and pay."

Slim laughed softly as Dakota finished. "The old haid is workin' all the time, eh, Dakota? Yore right as rain! If I hadn't been too cussed stupid, I'd a guessed the scheme right along. Yuh've made it plain now. They railroaded me to prison for a job I didn't do. Dad was fallin' at the time, and they gambled he'd die before I got out. He did. But I'm bettin' my parole kinda upset their plans."

They tried to dry-gulch yuh, Dakota. Why yuh said and me in jail, they could soon get their hooks into the Circle L. Then Arthur got that mortgage against the Dot H Dot. Now he's goin' to foreclose, or rather he thinks he is."

"Man alive, that gang will be desperate, soon as Tisdale has his talk with Arthur. They'll be on us like a swarm of ants. But we know now what to look for and why. Abe, I want yuh to do somethin' for me. Ride to town and tell Arthur that Mona has the money to pay her mortgage. Then kinda let it slip that I'm gonna loan it to her. Will yuh do that?"

"Shore I will, Slim. But I don't think Mona will take it from yuh. She said she couldn't, though darn me if I can see why. Women get funny ideas."

"Never mind whether she does or not. Just give Arthur the notion that she is. Yuh can ride in when Tisdale goes."

A half an hour later, as Abe and Tisdale were about to leave, Slim made one last remark to Tisdale which caused that individual to wrinkle his brow in puzzlement. "When yuh get through wanting to wring Arthur's stringy neck, Tisdale, ride back out here for the night and we'll talk business."

As soon as the two were gone, Slim got hold of Roy O'Brien and Stoney Sheard. "I want yuh two to oil yore guns to put in the time from now until tomorrow noon, keepin' yore eyes on the Standard Bank."

PICOBAC

PIPE TOBACCO

"Just hang around sorta like, yuh was killin' time and loafin'. Watch that bank all the time. Yuh may have the chance to purchase a hold-up. If noblin' happens, tomorrow, come on home again. Understand; I'm not sure about anythin', but I'm playin' a strong hunch."

"Shore, an' I've knowed hunches like that to pan out before," grinned Roy. "Come along with yuh, Stoney."

Dakota Blue's brow was furrowed with thought as he watched the two punchers jog away. "That's one angle that I don't quite get," he drawled. "What's the hunch, Slim?"

"My money is in the Standard Bank, ain't it?" explained Slim. "Well, Arthur knows it and so does the rest of that crowd. The surest way to keep me from usin' that money to loan out on mortgages, like the Dot H Dot's, is to grab the money off."

"Don't yuh see that Brockwell an' Arthur have gone too far by this time to back down? They either stand to win big or lose everything. I'll bet yuh anything yuh want, Roy and Stoney will have work to do."

When Steve Owens and Charley Quinn came jogging in from their work that evening, Slim met them at the corral. "For the next few days I got a nice easy job lined up for the pair of yuh," he told them. "Yore gonna have to do a lot of loafin' around. I want one of yuh to be on guard about the ranch here all the time, day and night. Yuh own take turns, but I want the man on watch to have a Winchester over his arm and be plumb wide awake."

"What's in the air, Slim?" yelled Steve Owens excitedly. "A scrap?"

"Likely to be," was the answer. "If it comes, it'll be a hummer. So watch things close."

"An' how?" chorled the irrepressible Steve. "We will, yuh know." Just at sunset Tisdale came riding up. His eyes were bleak and his lips were stern. Slim and Dakota met him as he dismounted. At the look on Tisdale's face, Slim jabbed an elbow into Dakota's ribs. "I knew he'd be foamin'!" he murmured.

Tisdale waited no time in expressing himself. As he swung to the ground he faced Slim and Dakota truculently. "Listen," he demanded harshly, "how much range does that damn law shark own around here anyhow?"

Slim suggested. "Not a yard of it that I know of."

"What? Not be own any a-tall?"

"Not a bit."

Tisdale looked plainly astounded. "That hombre must be plumb loco," he declared. "He gave me to understand that for at least five miles, both ways from the mouth of Jericho Valley."

"Then he lied, Tisdale. What he meant to say was that he hoped to control it by the time yore herds start across it. Ah, how much per head was he gonna charge yuh in range for at four yore herds?"

"One round simoleon," exploded Tisdale. "Yes, sir, one whole damn dollar per head, yearlin' included."

"What did yuh tell him?"

"I told him that he was a cross between a polecat and a buzzard and that he could go to blazes. I told him that we fellers comin' north to the Kicapo range would pay a reasonable range toll, but noblin' like a dollar."

"I told him we'd fight our way through before we'd be robbed by anybody. Why, there's right onto us He knows we can't afford to turn back by now. If we did, we'd never be able to drive another route in time to get to the Kicapo country when it's opened."

"An' that range up there ain't gonna last any too long. It's a plain case of gettin' there right early, or not at all. But me, I can't understand him makin' such demands

By BETTY BARCLAY

Wherever Christianity is the prevailing religion, Christmas day is observed. Everyone agrees that it is the finest of all holidays, especially for the children.

Christmas dinner is a gala occasion. It is the high spot of the holiday get-together. Housewives start planning for it days in advance.

Take cranberry sauce, for instance—no Christmas dinner has ever been complete without it. Our grandmothers prepared it at least a week ahead. In those days, cranberry sauce, thick with berries, was served in a side dish. Today, it may be strained, put into a mold and chilled. The newest and most attractive method is to make it without any cooking, and the addition of orange gives it a new interest. At serving time it comes to the table side by side with the roast, in cubes which adorn the edge of the dinner plate. One of the advantages of this method is that it can be prepared at practically the last minute because quick-setting gelatin requires only an hour to become firm.

Below are the modern versions of cranberry sauce and holiday fruit cake:

Holiday Fruit Cake (White)
Can be baked three or four weeks ahead

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar

1-1 1/2 cups sweetened condensed milk
4 cups (1 1/2 pound) shredded coconut

1/2 teaspoon salt
Combine chocolate, milk, coconut and salt. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen drops.

Chocolate Raisin Drop Cookies
1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder

1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
2/3 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
2 squares unsweetened chocolate melted

1/2 cup finely cut raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnut meats
1/4 cup heavy sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add eggs here's my proposition. Most of that crossing will be over Dot H Dot ranch. Miss Hall, who owns the Dot H Dot, has got to have money to squeak Arthur an' his foreclosure move. Me, I don't want a cent of money from yuh fellers. But if yuh'd ride over to the Dot H Dot with me an' make a deal with Miss Hall, puttin' up the toll money in advance, yuh'll get the crossing for yore own price and she'll have enough to pay Arthur."

"I've tried to get her to accept a loan from me, but for some darned reason I can't figger out, she won't take it. But a deal like I say with yuh, she'll grab in a hurry. An' it'll be to everybody's benefit except Arthur's. What d'yuh say?"

One hundred and forty by-products are made from livestock. It takes 90 days to make a Mickey "Darned fair," agreed Slim. "Now Mouse film."

TRIPLE TESTED

Beware of Fire

(By W. Y. Muirhead, Insurance Commissioner of the C.N.R.)

A survey of fire losses in Canada, covering a number of years indicates that more than 75 per cent of all fires are from preventable causes or from carelessness. With this knowledge the Canadian National Railway have during the last decade devoted considerable time and energy to this serious menace in all its branches with the satisfactory result that they now hold a very enviable record in the reduction of losses from fire.

Regular inspections are made of all properties from coast to coast, with special attention being given to hotels, summer camps, stations and rolling equipment which shelter and transport so many of our patrons each year, and the fact that the company has not experienced a serious loss from fire or loss of life in this class of risk speaks for itself.

Let us peep behind the scenes and see how this terrible demon fire is being shackled and the travelling public safeguarded.

Hotels present a hazard common to all public institutions where a number of persons are accommodated and special attention is given them by the inspector to ensure the safety of guests. Regular systematic inspections are made from basement to attic. The fire alarm system, water system, fire pumps and all first aid appliances are subject to rigid tests. In addition these buildings have their own private fire brigades and these are tested by surprise alarms and drilled in their work of handling fire equipment, as well as being instructed in fire hazards and to be watchful for any conditions that may cause fire.

However careful these inspections may be, the human element enters into the question through carelessness in smoking in bed, careless handling and use of curling irons, flat irons and discarding of smoking material. We earnestly solicit the co-operation of patrons and employees in eliminating the risk from these hazards, many fires with loss of life in various parts of the world.

Summer hotels and camps present a different hazard owing to the nature of their construction and surroundings, and are given extra attention. Here we do not have the benefit of City or Town fire protection, but the railway has provided them with protection equalling that found in any of their city hotels. Efficient water service, fire alarm systems, first aid appliances, fire escapes, and an efficient private fire brigade is maintained and regularly subjected to rigid tests. Here guests can retire at night with the knowledge that danger of fire has been reduced to a minimum.

Rolling equipment is regularly inspected for hazards common to this class of risk, not only in the large coach yards before the train is made up, but during journeys across Canada.

In addition to its regular fire inspections of all properties, the railway conducts a campaign of fire prevention with a view to educating all employees in fire hazards and in eliminating fires both on its own properties and also in the homes of the employees themselves.

The best time to fight a fire is before it starts, and a few tips on fire prevention may not be amiss at this point.

Campers should make absolutely certain that all camp fires are out before breaking camp.

Never start a fire with gasoline or coal oil.

Be careful with smoking material and matches; make sure match is out before throwing away.

Strike matches away from you and never on box that is open, and don't carry them loose in pockets. Keep them out of the reach of children and away from heating appliances, lamps, mice and rats.

Lamps: Always fill during daylight and never when lamp is lit. Keep burner clean and wick well trimmed. Keep lamp away from combustible material and do not leave burning with lamp burning. Pay careful attention to gasoline lanterns and use only dependable makes; Do not look into clothes closets with a lighted lamp or candle.

Radio: See that you have a reliable lightning arrester or ground switch on your lead-in from aerial to set, with adequate ground; never leave the battery charger on when away from house for any length of time and guard against temporary and risky electrical connections from source of power to the machine; Make a thorough and secure ground connection at a ground piping when inside building.

Electrical Equipment: Do not attempt electrical installations or alterations in the home unless you are a qualified electrician. Many fires can be traced to amateur wiring; Handle curling irons, flat irons and other appliances of this kind with care and do not place them on combustible materials. Some of the so-called ivory dressing table decorations have been found to be highly combustible; Beware of anything that has the smell of camphor; Do not use extension lamps for bed-warming purposes.

Heating: Make sure that chimneys are safe and free from accumulation of soot, and that they have not cracked inside roof space or attic owing to settling or movement of building; Keep stovepipes clean and free from soot and well supported; Keep stoves and ranges away from combustible walls and protect adjacent woodwork with metal shields; Make certain that wall and ceiling timbers where stovepipes pass through are of sufficient size; Where stovepipes pass through blind attic place a guard around pipe to prevent material being accidentally piled against them; Do not dry wood in the oven.

Rubbish: Keep premises clean and free from accumulation of rubbish. A clean floor, attic and basement will not cause fire, but if littered it will not only cause fire but spread fire, and retard its extinguishment; All oils and greases of vegetable and animal origin are subject to spontaneous combustion, so do not leave them lying around, when used on cleaning rags, but dispose of them immediately after use.

Gasoline: This liquid is one of our most valued aids to transportation, but is also regarded as the most dangerous of all hazards. Always re-appeal it when outside its container; Don't clean clothes with it inside your dwelling, and never place it in the tub of your washing machine. Never smoke in its presence or handle near open light; Never fill the tank of your automobile without grounding the nozzle of filling pipe or funnel on the tank of car. This to avoid static spark at this location; Always keep in safety can or can tightly sealed; Always treat gasoline as you would a deadly rattlesnake; The fumes from gasoline are heavier than air and sink to any depressions or low spots, and the fumes have been known to travel along with a favorable movement of the air to a distant open light and flash back to container with disastrous results.

Doughnuts for Hallowe'en
No Hallowe'en frolic is complete without doughnuts and sweet cider so it behooves the hostess to get out her fat kettle and start to work.

The terms doughnut, fried cake and cruller are used interchangeably, but there really is a technical difference between them. Not that it matters much because one is just as good as another and we seldom meet a genuine doughnut these days anyway.

Doughnuts are bits of yeast dough sweetened and fried in deep fat. Our grandmothers made them and also made a point that they be called doughnuts and not fried cakes.

Fried cakes are of the nature of quick bread dough sweetened or of a cake dough made thick enough to roll, cut in rings and fry in deep fat.

Cruller is a Dutch word and means twist. Since the dough of crullers is the same as that of fried cakes, the shape is the distinguishing feature.

So there is something in a name after all.
Then there's the old controversy about the indigestibility of fried cakes. If there were wiles and you don't eat too many of them they are just as easy to digest as any other food. The temperature of the fat determines whether the cakes soak fat and become too greasy or digest coats and suits.

The proper blending of materials is important, too. Thorough mixing is necessary but care should be taken not to over-mix the dough. Each ingredient should be thoroughly incorporated in the mixture as it is added, but prolonged beating results in hard, tough fried cakes. Chill the dough for an hour or longer before rolling. This makes it easy to handle with the minimum amount of flour and insures tender, fluffy cakes.

If you add 1 tablespoonful of vinegar to the frying fat the cakes will absorb less fat flavor. Always add the vinegar when you put the fat on to heat. Do not try to add cold vinegar to hot fat. If you forget it in the beginning, let it go until the next time you make fried cakes.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

Mrs. W. J. Rodman, who has been working in the office for a number of years is here on a visit to his parents in town.

Mrs. S. Glenn, who has been living in town for the past year, is moving back to her farm west of town for the winter months.

The Greenhills hockey club have completed the erection of a board fence around their rink, and are preparing to develop a real team for this season's sport.

Mr. Bob Tierney, who recently underwent an operation in the city has now returned home, and is feeling some better.

Picking a spot near their school the boys of the Paschenhale district are making a rink there for the hockey enthusiasts.

Mrs. Errol Heffernan is enjoying a visit from her brother John, who arrived from Saskatchewan on a visit last week.

Several more of the town merchants have had their store fronts fitted with storm sash during the past week in an effort to "keep out the cold".

The boys are getting the new rink in shape on Fourth avenue west. Part of it has been flooded, and several were skating there on Sunday. When completed it will be of quite a large area.

Quite a number of out-of-town cattle and horse buyers are coming the district for stock to be shipped east.

Another carload of relief apples supplied by the government was distributed by the Gilt, Edge M.D. council last week.

Our farmer friends are reminded of the Free Caterpillar-Diesel Tractor school which Sid Bibby is arranging to hold on Friday, Dec. 17th, at 2 p.m. in the Masonic hall. All are invited.

In order to rebuild one of the derricks up near Vermilion a large quantity of the necessary material has been trucked north this past week.

Mr. A.M. Muddle is having a new house built on his farm north of town these days. A.M. Chesterman is doing the work.

With some nineteen rinks on the job, the curling club started off last week with a promise versus vice president competition. The ladies too, at their meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday made arrangements for an early start after their rinks are formed.

Seems funny to hear and read of the Japanese "boycott," when as a matter of fact the only persons being boycotted are the wholesalers and local merchants, who purchased their Jap oranges and other supplies several months ago, and look like getting left with these on their hands! Think it over.

Any ladies desiring to curl this winter are invited to get in touch with Mrs. Middlemass, who will give them all particulars.

Mr. J. Milner arrived home last week from the hospital in the city where he has been for the past several weeks.

The bye-election held in Lethbridge last week to fill the seat left vacant in the provincial legislature by the resignation of Mr. Hans Wright, was won by Dr. Campbell, Unity candidate, with a majority of well over 800 over Mr. Burnap, S.C.

Having completed his assignment to deliver the animals from the National Back to the Backside at Montreal, Mr. Dave Davidson arrived back home on Monday morning last.

Santa Claus has arranged to come to town again this year and visit the Ruddy & Patterson store. He will be here on Saturday next, and invites all the youngsters to drop in and greet him. He'll have a big pack of goodies, too!

ALL readers are reminded of the Military Whist party which is being staged by the members of the local Rebekah lodge in the L.O.O.F. hall tomorrow (Thurs.) at 8 p.m. Good prizes and supper.

The youngsters of the public high school held an enjoyable sleighing party on Friday evening and truly splendid supper which was served upon their arrival back in town.

On Thursday last the funeral took place of Mr. Joe St. Peter, who was formerly farming in this district. He died in a hospital in Edmonton and we extend sympathies to his relatives.

Fully air-conditioned cars are now in use on Nos. 1 and 2 C.N. flyers, which makes travelling much more comfortable, and riding more pleasant in the new.

Kiddies; don't miss seeing Santa Claus when he visits the Ruddy & Patterson store on Saturday afternoon next. He has a big pack of goodies this year and wants to see you all; old and young alike!

The news was received in town on Wednesday last of the passing away on November 29th at his home in Detroit, Mich., of Mr. Ed. (Hickory) Davis, who recently moved there from Wainwright after being superannuated from the C.N. at this point.

The dates for the district court sessions at Wainwright during 1938 have now been set as follows:—Feb. 15th, April 19th, June 21st, Oct. 18th and Dec. 20th.

Never judge a person by his outside appearance. A shabby old coat may enwrap a newspaper publisher, while a man wearing a plug hat and sporting a gold-headed cane may be a delinquent subscriber!

A turkey shoot is being advertised on page four this week. This will be held in the Wainwright Motors garage on Saturday next and all are invited to participate.

Truly dangerous as well as inconvenient has been the state of the sidewalks and roads for the past couple of days owing to the sudden rainfall and immediate hard freezing on Sunday which has left everything just like glass. Even the cinders and sand which was spread on the streets was blown off by the nasty wind. Although several bad falls have been experienced no accidents have been reported. But it's fun watching the folks trying to walk respectfully and sedately!

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Our mailing list has been revised up to and including this issue. Please see that your label is correct.

We wish to sincerely thank those subscribers who have renewed their subscriptions during the past few weeks. To those who have not renewed we would ask them to examine the address label on their paper in order to ascertain whether their subscription to the paper is paid up to date, and if not, to send the amount owing as soon as possible.

It is not easy to remind separately each person who is in arrears, and while each may consider that the few dollars he or she owes are not worth bothering about, yet in the aggregate they may amount to a great deal and are of considerable importance to the paper. It is only fair if the paper is read that it should be paid for, and we therefore take this means of asking our readers not to overlook this matter.
